Specification

The disclosure filed October 31, 2003 is objected to under 35 U.S.C. 132 because it introduces new matter into the disclosure. 35 U.S.C. 132 states that no amendment shall introduce new matter into the disclosure of the invention. The added material which is not supported by the original disclosure is as follows: Showing of head of shank in Fig. 4 as well as description in the specification relating thereto.

Applicant is required to cancel the new matter in the reply to this Office Action.

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 112

The following is a quotation of the first paragraph of 35 U.S.C. 112:

The specification shall contain a written description of the invention, and of the manner and process of making and using it, in such full, clear, concise, and exact terms as to enable any person skilled in the art to which it pertains, or with which it is most nearly connected, to make and use the same and shall set forth the best mode contemplated by the inventor of carrying out his invention.

Claims 2, 3, 11, 12, 19, 20, and 27 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 112, first paragraph, as failing to comply with the written description requirement. The claim(s) contains subject matter which was not described in the specification in such a way as to reasonably convey to one skilled in the relevant art that the inventor(s), at the time the application was filed, had possession of the claimed invention. The specification had not originally disclosed the tapered region of the shank as extending "substantially the entire length of the shank" nor as extending "over a substantial portion of the length of the shank".

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 102

The following is a quotation of the appropriate paragraphs of 35 U.S.C. 102 that form the basis for the rejections under this section made in this Office action:

A person shall be entitled to a patent unless –

(a) the invention was known or used by others in this country, or patented or described in a printed publication in this or a foreign country, before the invention thereof by the applicant for a patent.

(b) the invention was patented or described in a printed publication in this or a foreign country or in public use or on sale in this country, more than one year prior to the date of application for patent in the United States.

(e) the invention was described in (1) an application for patent, published under section 122(b), by another filed in the United States before the invention by the applicant for patent or (2) a patent granted on an application for patent by another filed in the United States before the invention by the applicant for patent, except that an international application filed under the treaty defined in section 351(a) shall have the effects for purposes of this subsection of an application filed in the United States only if the international application designated the United States and was published under Article 21(2) of such treaty in the English language.

Claims 1-8 and 10-29 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 102(b) as being anticipated by Trimmer et al. '868. Trimmer et al. '868 discloses, Figs. 1-3, a pair of poured concrete forming panels each having a flange with a tapered pin 16 having head 28 and a tip opposite the head. A tapered wedge 72 is inserted through a through slot 38 to lock the pin and form panel assembly. The taper of pin 16 has a first tapered portion 30 proximate the head of the pin and a second tapered portion 32 of greater slope than the first portion 30, col. 3, lines 46-49.

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 103

The following is a quotation of 35 U.S.C. 103(a) which forms the basis for all obviousness rejections set forth in this Office action:

(a) A patent may not be obtained though the invention is not identically disclosed or described as set forth in section 102 of this title, if the differences between the subject matter sought to be patented and the prior art are such that the subject matter as a whole would have been obvious at the time the invention was made to a person having ordinary skill in the art to which said subject matter pertains. Patentability shall not be negated by the manner in which the invention was made.

Claims 9, 30, and 31 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over Trimmer et al. in view of either of Easton et al. '717 or Myers et al. '795.

Each of Easton et al. '717 and Myers et al. '795 teach positioning a tie rod between first and second flanges of adjacent form panels with the pin inserted through an opening in the tie rod to hold the tie rod in place, 51 of Easton et al. '717 and 42 of Myers et al. '795. To have attached a tie rod to the Trimmer et al. '868 assembly as by positioning a tie rod between the first and second flanges 24, 26 of the adjacent form panels 12, 14 with the pin 16 inserted through an opening in the tie rod, thus serving to hold the tie rod in place with minimal stock, would have constituted an obvious expedient to one having ordinary skill in the art at the time the invention was made as taught by either of Easton et al. '717 and Myers et al. '795.
